

680 The Fan Sports Radio

DynaSis has teamed up with 680 The Fan, Atlanta's Sports Station and the second largest AM signal in Georgia reaching approximately 150,000 listeners on a weekly basis. 680 is the local ESPN affiliate and is the exclusive home of the Atlanta Thrashers, NFL, and NBA action. DynaSis Business Solutions is currently building a dynamic Web site combining aesthetic re-design with cutting-edge functionality. 680 listeners will enjoy up-to-the-minute updates, live polling, improved navigation, and real-time posting and commentary from on-air personalities.

City of Atlanta Ethics Office

DynaSis has begun Phase II of The City of Atlanta's Ethics Office Web Portal following successful delivery and launch of the Web-based filing system for financial disclosure forms. The portal is used for city officials to file for expenditure reimbursements, gift reports, campaign contributions, state financial disclosures, and conflict of interest reports. The e-filing system also permits citizens to review the financial information, giving users automated access to ethics forms and allowing for increased productivity and less paperwork for the City.

Ethics officer Ginny Looney describes her thoughts on the changes, "The e-filing system is a powerful tool that arms citizens with vital facts about the way our city operates, empowering them to make informed decisions in voting and hold public officials accountable for their actions."

Stationery Style

Stationery Style is positioned to become the leading web-based company in its industry--offering a full line of stationery products featuring premiere designs for every occasion. DynaSis' Web design and application development specialist joined efforts in creating Stationery Style's online retail space. This industry-leading Web site is the first and only of its kind, and features an online type-setting tool that lets users create and personalize every detail in real-time before adding the finished product to a shopping cart, and having it delivered to the front door! The dynamic site also delivers key cost savings by integrating back-end accounting and automating critical business processes.
